workman nydegger

Hubert Anasco Joins Workman Nydegger as Controller

January 10, 2014

Hubert Anasco has joined Workman Nydegger as Controller. Anasco, who worked at Spillman Technologies for seven years, will be responsible for W|N's accounting processes and will be an integral advisor to the administrative management team. He is replacing Jim Adamson, the long-time both controller and executive director at WN. Adamson will be retiring in January. Anasco has a bachelor of science degree in accounting from the University of Utah and will graduate in the fall of 2014 with a master of accountancy degree from Westminster College.

Brent Lorimer, president and managing shareholder of Workman Nydegger, said "We welcome Hubert and the skills he brings from his working for one of Utah's most solid companies. Hubert's background and education are a great fit for the firm and we are excited about working with him.

Founded 30 years ago, Workman Nydegger is the largest intellectual property law firm in Utah. It has been consistently recognized as one of the top intellectual property firms in the nation and this year was awarded with four of the five intellectual property Lawyers of the Year designations by US News/Best Lawyers. Lawyers at the firm represent clients in all areas of intellectual property law including patent, trademark, copyright, unfair competition and related litigation and licensing matters in a diverse range of technologies including computer systems, software, e-commerce and information technology; electronics and electrical engineering; pharmaceutical, chemical, biotechnology and life science; physics and optics; mechanics and mechanical engineering and alternative energy. For additional information, please visit www.wnlaw.com.