workman nydegger

John O. Carpenter Joins Workman Nydegger

October 31, 2013

John O. Carpenter has joined Workman Nydegger, Utah's largest intellectual property law firm, where he will focus on U.S. patents. Carpenter, who worked for five years as an Application Scientist with EDAX, has technical experience in material analysis and engineering and Physics and Optics.

He graduated with honors from the S.J. Quinney College of Law at the University of Utah where he was the first blog editor of the Student Intellectual Property Law Association. He has a Bachelor of Science degree in geology and physics from Bowdoin College.

Carpenter is admitted to the Utah State Bar.